

FAMILY SYSTEMS PERSPECTIVES FOR HOME AND FAMILY

Pittsburgh Theological Seminary, in cooperation with the Western Pennsylvania Family Center, will offer “Learning to Live in Families: Family Systems Perspectives for Home and Congregation” September 2010-May 2011 (a total of 11 meetings). Father John R. Rushofsky, pastor and Bowen Family Systems consultant, will lead the group.

Participants in this class will enjoy a hands-on approach to develop a fuller knowledge of Family Systems Theory and how it can help them understand their relationships with members of their congregation. No previous study of Family Systems is necessary. This course is for clergy, ministers, and lay members of congregations of any denomination.

Fee is $180 and 2.2 Continuing Education Units are available. Classes meet at the Western Pennsylvania Family Center, 733 N. Highland Ave. To register, or to learn more about this event, contact the Office of Continuing Education at 412-924-1345 or ConEd@pts.edu.
