The Schaff Lectures are named in honor of the late David S. Schaff. For 23 years, Schaff taught church history at Western Theological Seminary on the north side of Pittsburgh, one of the antecedents of Pittsburgh Theological Seminary. Before becoming a professor in 1903, he held two pastorates. Schaff wrote extensively in the area of church history and co-edited the well-known and often consulted Schaff-Herzog Encyclopedia. He completed the unfinished work of his father, Philip, who had begun the History of the Christian Church before his death. The younger Schaff also wrote two books on the life of John Hus.

Donald McKim is academic and reference editor for Westminster John Knox Press. McKim is an ordained minister in the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.). McKim is a graduate of Westminster College (B.A.), Pittsburgh Theological Seminary (M.Div.), and University of Pittsburgh (Ph.D.). He has written more than 25 titles including most recently Presbyterian Answers: Exploring Christian Faith (Geneva Press, 2003) and Presbyterian Beliefs: A Brief Introduction (Geneva Press, 2003). Leanne Van Dyk is dean and vice president of academic affairs and professor of Reformed theology at Western Theological Seminary. She holds degrees from Calvin College (B.A.), Western Michigan University (M.A.), Calvin Theological Seminary (M.Div.), and Princeton Theological Seminary (Ph.D.). Her most recent publication is A More Profound Alleluia: Theology and Worship in Harmony (Eerdmans, 2004). Randall Zachman is professor of reformation studies at the University of Notre Dame. He is a graduate of Colgate University (B.A.), Yale Divinity School (M.Div.), and the University of Chicago Divinity School (Ph.D.). His area of interest is the history of Christian thought from the Reformation period to the present. Zachman is the author of Image and Word in the Theology of John Calvin (University of Notre Dame Press, 2007).

Pittsburgh Theological Seminary is a graduate professional institution of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A).
